Our evolutionary ancestors were all atheists, but somewhere along the way they found religion. So we’re back to our original question: Because of the design of our minds. That is just Barrett’s simple answer to the question of his title. With rich evidence from cognitive science but. A study found that about 50% of Americans believe in at least one conspiracy theory. Conspiracy theories come in all forms, but most theories involve political. 2020 was a banner year for conspiracy theories. First there was the proliferation of qanon, whose followers insisted that Donald Trump was. People have always been this. The more conspiracy theories you bring up, the more people answer yes to one of them. That fact leads American conspiracy researcher Joseph. Barrett goes on to explain why beliefs like religious beliefs are so widespread and why it is very difficult for our minds to think without them.
